Instructors:

Battalion Chief Jeff Brand
(ret.) CAL FIRE

Battalion Chief Jeff Brand is a 35-year veteran of the California Fire Service. He is a qualified Air Attack Officer, Incident Commander, Operations Section Chief, and Safety Officer. He has extensive background in large incident command management.

Chief Brand worked for CAL FIRE. During his career with CAL FIRE he worked on both municipal and wildland assignments in the North Coast, Riverside and Nevada/Yuba/Placer units.

Chief Brand instructs for Elite Command Training and was the Chief Investigator of the Esperanza Firefighter Fatality and a member of CAL FIRE's Wildland Urban Interface working group that helped restructure the "new" WUI tactics and decision-making guidelines.

Deputy Chief Mike Bryant
(ret.) Los Angeles Fire Department

Deputy Chief Mike Bryant is a 34-year veteran of the California Fire Service.

Chief Bryant's style is passion driven with focus and purpose. His purpose is to convey executive, command, and management topics/situations through leadership, emergency management, personnel management, training development, risk assessment, decision making, conflict resolution, policy development, and collaboration.

Chief Bryant is a Master Instructor through California State Fire Training. He has a Bachelor of Science degree from California State University, Long Beach. He sits on the NFPA Technical Committee 1026; Standard for Incident Management Personnel and as a Program Developer for California State Fire Training. Over the last 10 years, Chief Bryant has been the incident commander on several dynamic "all hazard" type I emergency incidents.
